
Indiana is fortunate to have two Regional Extension Centers (REC) supported by awards from the Office of the National Coordinator. Both RECs are ready to assist Indiana physicians, providers, and hospitals in the journey to meaningful use. These centers each serve a specific territory in Indiana which is divided by counties; the HealthBridge Tri-State REC (Tristaterec.org) includes 19 counties in Southern Indiana and the Purdue I-HITEC REC (IHITEC.purdue.edu) includes the remaining 73 counties. Staff from the two centers are ready to assist and will work collaboratively to ensure providers are directed to the appropriate REC based on geographic location.
